Hospice at Home West Cumbria offers support to people in their own homes, in care homes, nursing homes or in community hospitals.

They help by offering nursing support, emotional support, complementary therapies and lymphoedema care.

Home Nursing

Trained hospice nurses offer palliative care nursing support.

This is nursing care and support to help a person during the last weeks and days of their life until they die.

Our nurses can offer respite care.

This means they help look after someone who is dying so that their carer or family can take a break.

Lymphoedema Support

Hospice at Home West Cumbria trained lymphoedema nurses give treatment, support and advice.

You can find our more information about Lymphoedema by clicking here

Complementary Therapies

Trained complementary therapists offer different treatments to help you feel relaxed.

To find out more about complementary therapies click here

Emotional Support

Emotional support means you can talk to someone about your thoughts and feelings.

You can talk to someone in a group.

Sharing your thoughts and feelings can help you feel better and learn new ways of coping.

Patient Support Volunteers

Patient support volunteers are trained volunteers who offer friendship to the person who is ill.

We will meet with you to decide together what is the best support for you.

All support is free.

For more information or to arrange support please telephone Hospice at Home West Cumbria.

Palliative illness

Palliative illness means that a person's illness cannot be cured. It means making the person as comfortable as possible with medicines.

Palliative Care

This is care and support to help a person during the last weeks and days of their life until they die.

It also means helping people cope with their feelings and spiritual needs.

Bereavement

Bereavement is the feeling of loss and grief that someone may feel when someone they loved, or were close to, has died.

Lymphoedema

Lymph is a clear liquid which is carried in little tubes around our bodies.

It carries white blood cells which help us to fight infections.

Oedema means swelling.

Lymphoedema is when the little tubes that carry the lymph swell up.

Not all swelling is lymphoedema.

Complementary therapies

Therapies such as massage that help you to feel relaxed and cope with pain.
